Office 'superstore' coming

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The first "big box" retail store coming to West Sacramento may soon be in business on Harbor Blvd.

Staples, an office supply "superstore" with 721 locations in North America, is planning to come to 1.1 acres owned and developed by Patterson Properties at 1056 Harbor Blvd. Two parcels at that location wrap around an AM-PM gas station/ mini-market at the corner of Harbor and Evergreen Ave., and will host the 24,000 square foot Staples store and a Del Taco fast food restaurant, which will front on Harbor.

"It's the first big box/retail kind of use there's been in the city," said Mike Luken, an economic development specialist with the West Sacramento Redevelopment Agency. "It's not (as big as a) Home Depot -- it's a much smaller size."

The redevelopment agenty has been working hard to court "big box" retail stores in other parts of town, but Luken said that Staples "walked in" and was "offered no development assistance."

The retailer hopes to benefit from its position near the freeway, and plans a freeway sign nearby.

Candidates finish filing —

City council & school board candidates declare for races

A few late additions joined the race for school board seats in West Sacramento by the time filing closed on Friday, but there were no surprises in the hunt for two seats on the West Sacramento City Council.

Mayor Wes Beers and Mayor pro tem Christopher Cabaldon both filed papers to run for reelection to the city council. Challenging them will be Marna Miller, a neighborhood activist, and James Cahill, a finance professional, both of whom are veterans of the 1996 city council race.

The Washington Unified School District board of trustees race on Nov. 3 is divided into a hunt for two four-year terms and a race for the remaining two years of a term left vacant by the resignation of former board member Hal Williams.

Incumbents Ardeene Westvik (a retired educator) and Dave Farmer (a police lieutenant) both filed to run again. Challenging them will be Stanley Dal Butler, a fleet superintendent; Paul Zolnikov, a "business owner and father"; Daniel Clayton, with no designation listed; and Richard B. Drew, an equipment operator/ minister who initially intended to run for the two-year seat but changed his mind.

In the race for that two-year term will be Karen L. Bishop, a mother; Ed Hocking, a government program analyst; Karl Machschefes, an elementary school teacher (out of the district); James J.C. Myers, a pastor; and Julie Hart Martin, a grocery pricing coordinator.

Man's beating still a mystery

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento police are looking for leads in the beating of a West Sacramento man on August 2.

"Rafael Guzman was walking to meet friends to go to work at the 300-block of 4th St. and he was assaulted and pretty seriously beaten with a piece of plywood," said Sgt. Don Cox. "They took his wallet.

Guzman, believed to be in his 60s, is recuperating.

Descriptions of the assailants are sketchy -- one was a young black male, and the other a white male. The incident occurred at about 5 a.m. as Guzman, a farmworker, was headed for work.

'2000 Rooms' motel sign will go

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

One of West Sacramento's least popular tourist attractions -- a 31-year old billboard advertising the city's "2000 motel rooms" -- will soon be coming down.

The sign is located on the westbound freeway off-ramp at Jefferson Blvd. A company called Eller Media will remove it, replace it, and lease the site from the West Sacramento Hotel-Motel Association for 15 years.

"They're going to take the existing three-pole sign down and put up a monopole sign a little bit smaller," said Steve Rikala of the West Sacramento Community Development Department.

Eller Media will advertise on the west side of the new sign, and a new sign for the hotel/ motel association will be placed on the east side.

"It's something everyone has been working hard on and looking forward to," said Rikala. "We'll have a new, clean sign presenting an attractive appearance as well as advertising for the hotel-motel industry, which is an important business in West Sacramento."

A giant pair of scissors, a string quartet, tasty hors d'oeuvres, a pyramid-shaped building and somebody dressed like a giant otter all converged Friday afternoon on the Sacramento riverfront as West Sacramento celebrated the grand opening of the first 1,000 feet of a new riverfront promenade.

The promenade, planned to soon begin stretching north across the city's riverfront, begins at the Tower Bridge and stretches north past the new Money Store office building. Paving stones, park benches, newly planted trees and old-fashioned streetlights make up the promenade, meant to be an inviting place for a stroll along the river.

Elsewhere on the promenade will be a planned "grand staircase" to the water and an amphitheater.

"What we are symbolically opening today is the first one thousand feet of the River Walk Promenade, a paved pedestrian path that will eventually stretch three and a half miles from the Lighthouse Marina Project on the north to the Stone Locks on the south," said Mayor Wes Beers in his opening comments before the ribbon cutting.

Beers said the project was West Sacramento's first element built according to the riverfront master plan it developed in conjunction with Sacramento. Sacramento has opened a similar promenade across the river.

Phase II on the West Sacramento side, which will stretch northwards from the Money Store site, will include a park and grassy bench area. Construction will begin next month, said Beers.

The riverfront grand opening also included a "state of the city" address by Mayor Beers and a look at the inside of the pyramid-style Money Store headquarters, now home to over a thousand employees.

Beers cited a 36 percent reduction in major crimes in West Sacramento since 1993 and "the highest rated fire department in the region"; levee improvements which will soon provide 400-year flood protection; and the creation of "over 13,000 new jobs. . . since 1990."

Major sponsors of the event Friday included the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, The Money Store, and the city's law firm, Kronick, Moskovitz, Tiedemann & Girard.

About Town:

A life of service —

SISTER ROSE MARY IANNUCCI

Sister Rose Mary Iannucci was born in Connecticut and knew at a relatively early age that she wanted to devote her life to God and the Catholic Church.

"My parents left the decision up to me," remembered Sister Rose Mary, "but like many sisters, I had a very special calling, and after I graduated from high school, I went to France where I began my studies as a novice in the Daughters of the Holy Spirit."

Like millions of others who were living in Europe in the late-1930's, Sister Rose Mary suddenly found her life radically changed by the outbreak of World War Two.

"When the Germans invaded France," said Sister Rose Mary, "they took us as their prisoners and put us into a concentration camp. In the large hotel where I spent almost three years, there were British, Canadians, and about 50 little Jewish children, along with Americans of course. The Daughters of the Holy Spirit is a teaching order, so I spent much of my time teaching the little children. They were so sweet, and very smart, but one day the Germans took them away, and I'm afraid they did not live through the war. It is still a difficult thing to talk about."

During her captivity, Sister Rose Mary also spent a lot of her time helping the elderly and doing whatever she could to make life more bearable for her fellow prisoners.

"The Red Cross was very helpful," said Sister Rose Mary. "Plus their packages also included cigarettes, and we used those to trade for chickens and other food that was desperately needed."

Towards the end of the war, Sister Rose Mary was among those released by her captors in exchange for German soldiers being held prisoner.

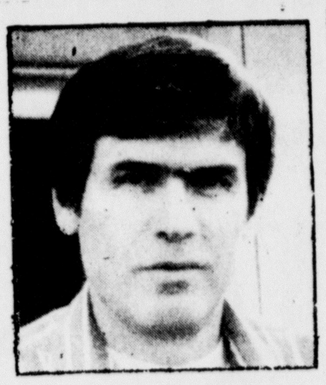

"I went to Portugal first," recalled Sister Rose Mary, "and then to the United States. Once I was back in Connecticut, I enrolled in college and after I re-

Am I the only one addicted to Andy & Barney re-runs?

Editor's note: Daryl is taking a few weeks vacation from column writing. Here is one of his favorites from the past.

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

I have a small confession to make. I think I'm suffering from one of those dreaded personal addictions everyone seems to be getting nowadays. Actually, I know for a fact that I'm addicted, but I'm still apparently in the final stages of denial, and it is very difficult for me to discuss this matter openly and honestly. My unpaid therapist, however, who also happens to be my middle-son, Paul, has explained to me that if I truly want to lick this thing once and for all, I need to come out of the closet and share my problem with others.

The really embarrassing part is that my particular addiction isn't very trendy or even worthy of a few good weeks at the Betty Ford clinic. I am absolutely sure, however, that there are literally thousands of other seemingly well-adjusted adults who are currently suffering from the same problem, and who, like me, wish they were spending their lunch hour in a slightly more productive manner.

Anyway, since openly admitting to a problem seems to be universally accepted as the first step on the road to recovery, I have decided to use this forum to blurt out one of my best kept secrets -- that I happen to be hopelessly addicted to Andy and Barney re-runs.

There, it's finally out in the open. Shezzam! I already feel better. No longer will I have to pretend that my heros are literary giants or sports superstars, when in fact they are Andy Taylor and Barney Fife. And when people ask me what my favorite TV show is, I won't have to lie and say Masterpiece Theater.

For years it wasn't really so bad, or at least that's what I told myself, because Channel 40, our local-re-run station, only ran one episode of the old Andy Griffith show a day, beginning at noon. Since I could have cared less about the Dick Van Dyke show which followed it -- although Laura Petrie is still wonderful to look at -- I was always back at work on time and nobody was the wiser. However, Channel 40 has recently begun running two back-to-back daily episodes of Andy and Barney, and by the time I get back to the office, I'm at least fifteen minutes late, and some of my co-workers are beginning to complain.

"If it's starting to affect your work, Dad," my son explained, "then it's time to deal with it."

He suggested the first thing I needed to do was to cut back to one episode per day. Now that's easy enough to say, but very difficult to do when the second episode happens to be the one in which Andy meets his old girlfriend at their high school reunion, or when Ernest T. Bass is in town again, throwing rocks through everyone's windows, or when Barney is putting some of his best moves on Thelma Lou.

My son's second suggestion was that I finally come to grips with the reality that there is no such place as the town of Mayberry, USA. "I'm afraid those days are over, Dad. Real sheriffs wear guns, real deputies don't carry their bullets in a pocket, and no one hangs around a barbershop any longer than they have to anymore."

After giving the matter quite a bit of thought, I have decided that this is probably the real crux of my problem: No matter how outrageous the world was behaving on any given day, there was always at least one place where, for half-a-hour, people treated each other with kindness and genuine concern, where Opey could safely walk the streets kicking cans on his way to the fishing pond, where Gomer, the friendly mechanic, would never think of over-charging or cheating anyone, and where people spent most of their Sunday afternoons quietly sitting on the front porch with family and friends shooting the breeze and sipping iced tea.

"You just need a reality check, Dad, that's all."

And maybe I do. But as Aunt Bea once said to Andy and Opey as she served them each a slice of homemade apple pie after they had finished one of her wonderful fried chicken dinners, "I just don't know what to think of this world anymore."

Night Out Against Crime

Tuesday, Aug. 4, was the time to celebrate "National Night Out Against Crime" both in neighborhoods in West Sacramento and across the country. Residents were urged to leave their porch lights on and meet together in block parties in service of the neighborhood watch idea.

Above, a West Sacramento youngster greets the city's mascot at one gathering. Police, city officials, and even the famous "crash test dummies" all participated in the evening event.

The Giants have lost six out of the last seven games and are watching the N.L. wild card spot slip away. They returned from a 6-4 road trip only to lose a three game series to the Braves.

The Cub, Mets and the Dodgers are all working hard for that last playoff spot. The Giants' pitching staff is very tired as they await the return of All-Star pitcher Shawn Estes. Estes was eligible to come off the disabled list on July 28th, but his sore left shoulder has not responded to treatment and his return is still uncertain. The only bright spot for the Giants this week is Barry Bonds. Bonds needs two home runs to pass Al Kaline (399) on the all-time home run list. Bonds can also become the first player in Major League history to hit 400 home runs and steal 400 bases. No M.L player has ever came close to this record.

As a matter of fact, Major League baseball has had only two players who have hit 300 HR's and stolen 300 bases in their careers. Can you name the two players?

The answer is Barry's dad, Bobby Bonds and his god-father, Willie Mays!

The 49ers didn't suffer any major injuries in their 27-21 loss in San Diego last Saturday. The 49ers first round pick R.W. McQuarters intercepted a pass and returned it for a touchdown and Chargers rookie quarterback Ryan Leaf also enjoyed a good day at the office, completing 14 of 20 passes for 116 yards and one touchdown. The Niners will break camp in Stockton on Wednesday and head up to Seattle for their American Bowl game on Saturday (5 p.m -ch.13) with the Seahawks.

The Raiders beat up the Cowboys 16-3 in their first pre-season and will be heading to Green Bay to tackle the Packers on Sunday (noon - ch. 40).

The Sacramento Knights won their indoor soccer game last Saturday 8-1 against Dallas as Mark Thomas scored a hat trick (3 goals) and Shawn Blakeman scored twice as they prepare to travel to Dallas for a return match on Saturday night.

West Sacramento's undefeated Willie Jorrin (21-0, 11 KO's) will tangle with W.B.A. Continental Champion (122 lbs) Julio Cardona (25-15, 17 KO's) on August 20th at the Arco Arena. Tickets for this 40 rounds of boxing show are priced at $23, $33, and $43 and can be purchased at the Arco Box office or any Ticket Master outlet.

Outstanding season ends for All-Stars

West Sac team loses Division One championship game Friday to Tassahara Valley

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

Last Friday night, the inspiring post-season play of the West Sacramento Little League 11-12 year-old All-Stars finally came to an end as they lost the California Division One championship game to Tassahara Valley by a score of 4-2.

The double-elimination tournament was held in Foster City in the Bay Area and West Sacramento won five of their first six games, which qualified them to meet Tassahara Valley in the championship game. Had they beaten Tassahara Valley, they would have then moved on to the Western States regional tournament in San Bernardino, California and played for a trip to the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pennsylvania.

Because West Sacramento lost their second game in Foster City, they were forced to play on seven straight nights, while Tassahara Valley, which stayed in the winner's bracket throughout the tournament, only had to play three games before meeting West Sacramento for the championship.

"I think our kids just got a little tired," said Pam Geivett, wife of manager Mort Geivett, "but they still went out there and played their hearts out. I can't tell you how proud Mort and the other coaches are of all of them."

To win the championship from the loser's bracket, West Sacramento would have had to beat Tassahara Valley twice, and thanks to a dramatic pinch-hit three-run home run from Luis Duarte, they won the first game 6-5. In the second game between the two teams, West Sacramento had their ace pitcher, Chris Schaffer, on the mound, pitching his fourth game of the week.

"It was a close game and we definitely had our chances," said Walt Cheechov, one of the team's coaches. "The kids played great, but they just couldn't quite come up with that one big hit which might have turned things around. We were always able to get that big hit in the past, but I guess it just wasn't to be this time. Our players did their best, though, and that's all you can ask. Plus, to my knowledge, no West Sacramento Little League team has ever gone farther in post-season tournament play than this year's team."

On their way to the Division One championship game, West Sacramento received great overall play from their entire 13-man and one-woman roster, which included Andy Harris, Katie Koell, Joey Holquin, Kevin Cheechov, Justin Lucas, John Lopes, Ryan Ketterling, Caleb Grant, Luis Duarte, Tyler Geivett, Gabe Gomez, Josiah Woods, Chris Schaffer, and Paul Holcomb.

A number of All-Star parents commented on how supportive West Sacramento fans had been throughout post-season tournament play. "At every game," said one parent, "the stands were full of people from West Sacramento cheering the kids on, and I'm sure that had something to do with the team getting all the way to the Division One championship game. The support the community gave the kids was really great, and West Sacramento can be very proud of the way they took this team to their hearts and encouraged them to do their very best."

The News-Ledger: Proud to bring you the All-Stars' story from beginning to end.

News-Ledger Editorial

Jones hopes to be a councilman

Remember David Jones, the idealistic attorney for Legal Services of Northern California who helped thwart many of West Sacramento's redevelopment plans in his zeal to look out for low income housing residents?

Jones headed to Washington, D.C., several years ago to take an internship post in the government and was then hired to serve on Attorney General Janet Reno's staff. He is planning a return to Sacramento and a possible run at a Sacramento City Council seat in November, says the Bee.

Many were the executive sessions of the West Sacramento City Council in the early '90s as they responded to his litigation in defense of residents in developments such as Lighthouse and the former Vacation Inn -- projects the city hoped to use to move West Sacramento forward. Jones, of course, concentrated on making sure the city took care of what he felt were its obligations to the low income residents while doing so.

You can bet that many past members of the West Sacramento City Council are wishing Mr. Jones the best in his quest to gain a Sacramento City Council seat -- and hoping that once elected, he gets sued by someone as diligent and persistent as himself.

The buzzword of the moment within the Washington Unified School District is "accountability."

Students need to be "accountable" for what they learn and don't learn; teachers need to be "accountable" for how successfully they teach.

What the school board needs to realize is that this "accountability" should apply not only to those on the lower rungs of the district; it should start at the top. Any board member who is not happy with the shape of the district but -- who has taken part in every major decision in W.U.S.D. for the past six or eight years -- should probably take a dose of this "accountability" medicine themselves..

Those running for the school board in November, and those already on it, should consider reading a book or taking a course on management and leadership. Perhaps by mastering a few of the basics, they can avoid another decade of rancor in W.U.S.D.

Apology accepted

I would like to commend John Hartmire of the West Sacramento Press for his professionalism demonstrated by the writing of his second article about Golden State Middle School (GSMS) titled "A word on teaching and education." In his follow up article he acknowledges the fact that errors were made in his first article titled "Winds of change at GSMC (sic)," stating that at times one can "...mess up in the exuberance to get a story out" and not be aware of the whole picture until it is too late. He reminds all of us that "...open, honest and fair" communications should always be valued and that "Everyone involved in education deserves our support and commitment to the future..." After all, our future is our children. Unfortunately this article did not appear on the front page as did the first, and was possibly overlooked by many. However, it takes a big person to admit they were wrong and I for one respect that.

Goodbye, motel sign

At our August 6, 1998 Planning Commission meeting, Eller Media Co. was grated a conditional use permit to tear down that outdated "2000 motel rooms" sign we see as we make the West Sac exit off the Pioneer Bridge. The old sign will be replaced with a somewhat smaller sign that should reflect more accurately the number of available roms and current rates charged. Colors should include brown, white and (maybe) red, or those City uses at City Hall, indicating progress on City progress on various projects. This will be a welcome change for above reasons and the old sign was starting to fall apart, too. It appears to be the "icing on the cake," following all of the new motel signs recently installed on West Capitol Ave.

In late July, I saw a warning to 4-wheel drive vehicle owners who have their spare tire mounted on back door: This is dangerous as tire kit extends further out than does bumper! If rear-ended, the spare tire -- not the bumper -- will take the brunt of force from crash. This means greater damage to vehicle and higher personal injuries. (What happened to the days when bumpers were really bumpers and far less relative damage resulted from similar crashes? Could it be that the manufacturers don't want cars to last as long -- or be as safe? You be the judge...it's one thing to be tired out, but quite different to be "out-tired." Or, how strongly do we believe in "crash diets?")

Letter from Marna

Hearing that our city has had a 36% reduction in crime according to Chief Gore and stated by Mayor Wes Beers gave me pause. Our city has certainly improved over the years. However, at the Peddlers Fair and over the past few months of talking to people about our police departments' performance, more than a few people have stated that their complaints go undocumented and unanswered. Coming home from the Fair Political Practices Commission Seminar on Saturday afternoon, on the Ken and Bob Radio Program, I hear that dozens of cities are under investigation for manipulating and falsifying statistics and records on crime and there are indictments being made of police and municipal officials. Now, I know of people who have investigated Sacramento's Police force because they do this and other unethical things. We want a police force that protects all the areas as well as they presently protect some areas of Southport. And we want a police force that has reputable methods.

Personally, I do not believe that you have to embellish a story or a fact to make it palatable to the ears and interest level of the audience. Enhance a story with details for a personal view or a unique perspective or enlighten with new knowledge -- yes; fabricate -- no. Your spirit gives you that twinge when there is something wrong with a statement or a thought, even when you're hearing yourself make a statement. I'm wondering if Mayor Beers felt the "pull" when he listen to what the Police Chief told him. Improvement should be a standard way of doing business, not manipulating the standard.

There are still those who make mention of Sacramento's remarks or thoughts about our city, like that nest of vipers ought to be our goal. I never have measured anything by what someone else thought. Being content and happy in life or changing what disturbs me is a choice. This city, so full of multi-generations, some having children grow up to live in houses on the same block, couldn't be too affected by the rudeness of others, because most people live here without any intention of moving.

The trucking industry and commerce made this town a financially secure area, or Sacramento and Yolo wouldn't be trying to lure them away. Naturally, you feel a tightness in your stomach when you have to deal with unpleasant people, but remember, you shouldn't be embarrassed or hurt by what some one else does. What kind of a person they are has nothing to do with you, nor should it affect the way you handle your life. If you do unpleasantly onto others as they do unto you -- you are everything you think they are. Luckily, it doesn't say we have to "like" what people do, so we can speak our mind or fuss about it in our thoughts for a minute or so and move on. If a statement is true, what do you think about it. If it is not, why should you even care. If what you think bothers you, decide what you can do to make things better. Grains of sand together make a beach; and even when they are irritating things, they cause pearls.

ceived my masters degree, I taught for six years in Vermont. In 1979, I came to West Sacramento and I have been at Our Lady of Grace ever since. I can't tell you how much I've enjoyed my time here. Teaching the children was such a joy. There are so many wonderful people in West Sacramento."

During Sister Rose Mary's early years in West Sacramento she was sent by Father O'Callaghan to San Francisco to study for a year to become knowledgeable in the needs of the sick and the elderly, and Sister Rose Mary has devoted much of her time in recent years to that ministry.

"I visit 50 or 60 people every week," explained Sister Rose Mary. "Each day I go to a different area of the city, and on Thursdays I visit the convalescent home. I often read them passages, or we sing or do other activities. We also have Communion. The elderly and those who can't leave their homes have very special needs, and I truly enjoy the time I get to spend with them."

"Sister Rose Mary has a special sensitivity for those in need," said Jeanne Sawitzky, a longtime resident of West Sacramento who has seen Sister Rose Mary perform her magic in person. "When my daughter was very ill after an accident, Sister Rose Mary would come to the house and read her stories. To this day, my daughter remembers those stories and Sister Rose Mary's kindness towards her. Sister Rose Mary is much too humble to want to hear it, but she is going to be really missed by those of us who have come to know and admire her, especially the sick and elderly of this community."

"Sister Rose Mary has great energy and is very dedicated to her work," said Sister Michael Henry, the principal of Our Lady of Grace School, "and it will be impossible to replace her. I have known her for twenty years and she has always brought sunshine wherever she has gone." Sister Rose Mary will be leaving West Sacramento at the end of the month to begin serving those in a nursing home in Newport, Rhode Island.

"I'm going to Florida and Connecticut first," said Sister Rose Mary, "to have a good visit with my two sisters. I don't believe in retiring and I'm looking forward to my new duties in Rhode Island. It is very important that the sick and elderly have someone they can talk to, and someone who can minister to their spiritual needs. Many of them are lonely and have very sad stories. Just like all the wonderful children I have taught, they have been a blessing to me."

Sister Rose Mary has led the life she was called to live and she doesn't regret a moment of it. "I wouldn't change anything," said Sister Rose Mary with a contagious smile, "and I have especially enjoyed my many years in West Sacramento. Everyone has been so nice and kind to me. Leaving is not easy, but that is what I have been called to do."

Local teen heads to 'Miss Jr. Teen Sacramento'

Maria Virginia Mendez of West Sacramento was recently selected to participate in the Nationals' 1998 Miss Jr. Teen Sacramento pageant competition that will take place on September 13.

Maria will be competing for her share of over $20,000 in scholarships, prizes and specialty gifts that will be distributed to contestants. Maria will be competing in the Miss. Jr. Teen division, one of five divisions that will have young women between the ages of 7 and 23 competing in modeling routines which include casual wear and formal wear. Most important, Maria will display her personality and interviewing skills while interviewing with this year's Sacramento judging panel. Personality is the number one aspect that each contestant is judged on during all phases of competition.

MARIA VIRGINIA MENDEZ

If Maria were to win the title of Miss Jr. Teen Sacramento, she would represent Sacramento and the surrounding communities within a 200 mile radius of Sacramento at the National Competition in Orlando, Florida. Over $60,000 in prizes and awards will be presented at Nationals while each winner enjoys this expense-paid trip of five nights and six days in Orlando.

In her spare time, Maria enjoys reading, drawing pictures, and choir. There is no cost to Maria for participating in the pageant competition. Community businesses, organizations and private individuals will assist Maria in participating in this year's competition by becoming an official sponsor to her. Through sponsorship, each contestant receives all the necessary training, rehearsals, and financial support which will allow Maria to become a very confident and well prepared contestant in this year's Sacramento Pageant.

Any business, organization or private individual who may be interested in becoming a sponsor to Maria may contact her pageant coordinator, Kate Pukstas, at (800) 350-9063.

Police log

Aug. 5, 11:25 p.m.

An officer contacted a woman in a car which had just driven into a parked pickup truck, damaging both vehicles, at Solano St. In plain view on the car's console was a methamphetamine pipe. The 35-year old driver told the officer her driver's license was inside the console and gave him permission to retrieve it. Inside the console, the officer found another meth pipe. The woman was arrested.

Aug. 5, 7:30 a.m.

Yolo County's inter-department narcotics enforcement task force received information that drug sales were occurring from a Virginia Ave. home. They visited the home, found an ounce of methamphetamine, arrested a parolee and interrupted a drug deal in progress.

Aug. 7, 11:45 a.m.

Two officers were dispatched to Jefferson Blvd./ Westacre Rd. regarding an uncooperative transit bus passenger. The driver said she had threatened him and might have a weapon. The 40-year old woman was uncooperative with police, continuously yelling at the driver, and on the way out of the bus she spit on the driver and then kicked an officer in the shin. She was arrested. She refused to give her name but was identified.

Aug. 7, 11:50 a.m.

Two officers contacted a man and woman at a West Capitol motel room, which they had been told was being used for heroin sales. During a consent search, they located 12 pieces of a black substance which later tested positive for heroin, and approximately 700 syringes. The pair were arrested.

Aug. 8, 11:41 a.m.

Two males got into a fight on Merkley Ave., and one struck the other, knocking him into a large glass window which significantly injured him. The suspect was booked.

Aug. 8, 2:55 p.m.

Officers recovered a car which had been stolen in Sacramento from Parkway Pl. Its wheels were missing.

Aug. 8, 9:58 a.m.

A Drever St. resident reported a derailed train nearby. An officer found two grain cars flipped over, and fire department units also responded and found no hazardous materials involvement. The incident had occurred the prior night at 7 or 8 p.m., but the railroad hadn't reported it to local authorities.

Aug. 9, 9:05 a.m.

Police received a report that during the past several days someone had entered the 2nd St. apartment of a man who had died recently, but whose property was still inside. Items were missing, and the man's car was determined to be stolen as well.

Aug. 9, 11:10 a.m.

Someone reportedly broke a window and stole items from a car parked on Park Blvd.

Aug. 9, 4:02 a.m.

On Hobson Ave., a woman reported that a man had entered her home through a window, but she scared him off.
